D. Office

The Office uses category includes office buildings housing activities conducted in a professional setting, generally focusing on the provision of business services, professional services (e.g., lawyers, accountants, engineers, architects), financial services (e.g., lenders, brokerage houses, tax preparers), or medical and dental services. Use types include: business and sales; and professional services. This use category does not include offices that are a component of or accessory to a principal use in another use category, such as administrative government services (categorized in the Government Facilities use category), or banks or other financial institutions (categorized in the Retail Sales and Services use category). Accessory uses may include cafeterias, recreational or fitness facilities, incidental commercial uses, an accessory data center serving a principal use on the same or adjacent premises, or other amenities primarily for the use of employees of the office use.

....

Business training and conference facility

A for-profit establishment whose primary purpose is to offer business training courses and conference facilities for groups of 15 persons or more. Examples of the types of business training courses offered include the Commonwealth real estate exam for brokers, continuing education courses for accountants, lawyers, and other professionals, general business training courses offered by businesses, computer software courses, and the like. Such uses may include classrooms, areas to serve refreshments and meals prepared off the premises, and offices for the training staff.

B. Industrial Services

The Industrial Services use category includes use types involving the support, repair, or servicing of industrial or business machinery equipment, products, or by-products, and firms that service consumer goods for separate retail outlets. Contractors and building maintenance services and similar uses perform services off-site. Few customers, especially the general public, come to the site. The category also includes use types involving the storage or movement of goods. Use types include: contractor service; data center; fuel oil or bottled gas distributor; general industrial service and repair; heavy equipment sales, rental, and service; laundry, dry cleaning, and carpet cleaning plants; manufactured home and prefabricated building construction and sales; research and development; and similar use types.

Contractor services

Offices for landscaping, building, heating, plumbing, or electrical contractors, and related storage facilities.

Data center

A facility containing one or more large-scale computer systems used for data storage and processing for off-site users. Typical supporting equipment includes back-up batteries and power generators, cooling units, fire suppression systems, and enhanced security features. A data center typically has few on-site employees.

Fuel oil or bottled gas distributor

An establishment principally engaged in the sale, distribution, and delivery of fuel oil or bottled gases such as propane or liquified petroleum.
